

TOWARDS A PHILOSOPHY OF AI

LIFE AND THE PHILOSOPHICAL CANON

 Friday, March 7
 Rm 395,
Rosenberg College of Law

- 4:00-4:15
WELCOME AND INTRODUCTION
Natalie Nenadic, University of Kentucky
- 4:15-6:00
Robert C. Scharff, University of New Hampshire
"Philosophy, Technology, and Artificial Intelligence: Pre-Philosophical Considerations"
- Dinner

 SATURDAY, MARCH 8
 Rm 316 M,
Jacobs Sciences Building

- 9:00-10:00
Gathering and Refreshments,
Coffee & Pastries/Fruit
- 10:00-11:00
Agostino Cera, Università di Ferrara, Italy
"From Empirical Turn to Ontophobic Turn:
Philosophical Considerations on the Newest Philosophy of Technology"

- 11:00-12:00
Richard Ackermann, Independent Scholar;
Software Developer
"Epochal 'Destinies' and the History of Technology:
Reclaiming Being in the Age of Artificial Intelligence"
- 12:00-2:00
Lunch
- 2:00-3:00
Julia Sushytska, Occidental College
"Time Lost in Amechania: Stiegler, Mamardashvili, and an Antidote to AI"
- 3:00-4:00
Robin Wang, Loyola Marymount University
"Can a Machine Flow Like Dao? A Daoist Philosophy on Artificial Intelligence"
- 4:00-4:20
Break
- 4:20-5:20
B. Scot Rousse, UC Berkeley; Director of Research,
Pluralistic Networks
"Frictionless Spinning in the Void: AI is not There"
- 5:20-6:20
Richard Polt, Xavier University
"Generative AI and the Culture of the Future"
- 6:20-6:50
Concluding Remarks
- Dinner

Workshop sponsored by

CURATE (Celebrating University Research Across the Enterprise)
Office of the Vice President for Research, University of Kentucky