

DAN SHEFFLER

1022 POT
University of Kentucky
Lexington, KY 40506-0027
859-359-2221
dansheffler@uky.edu

SPECIALIZATION Ancient Philosophy.

COMPETENCE Philosophy of Religion, Contemporary Metaphysics.

EDUCATION PhD, Philosophy, University of Kentucky, (in progress, expected graduation in 2015).

M.A., Philosophy, University of Kentucky, 2012.

M.A., Classics, University of Kentucky, 2010.

B.A., Philosophy and Classics, University of Kentucky, 2010.

PRESENTATIONS “A Complex Eternity,” Society of Christian Philosophers, Georgetown University, April 2013.

“Why Molinism Does Not Help with the Rollback Argument,” Society of Christian Philosophers, Trinity College, March 2014 (pending).

AWARDS Best graduate student paper ($500) awarded by Society of Christian Philosophers for “A Complex Eternity,” April 2013.

Accepted into University Scholars program at the University of Kentucky for classics, 2008–2010.

Research grant from University of Kentucky Eureka fund ($2,000), 2006.

TEACHING

Philosophy of C.S. Lewis, Asbury University, Spring 2014.

Social and Political Philosophy, Asbury University, Fall 2012.

Introduction to Philosophy, Asbury University, Fall 2013–Spring 2014.

Business Ethics, University of Kentucky, Spring 2013–Fall 2013.

Knowledge and Reality, University of Kentucky, Fall 2013–Spring 2014.

Introduction to Ethics, University of Kentucky, Spring 2012–Fall 2012.

Symbolic Logic, University of Kentucky, Fall 2010–Fall 2011.

Latin 1 and 2, University of Kentucky, Fall 2009–Spring 2010.

Medical Terminology (on-line course), University of Kentucky, Summer 2010.

Traditional Logic, Mars Hill Christian Academy, 2008–2014.

Latin years 3 and 4, Mars Hill Christian Academy, 2009–2014.

LANGUAGE

Advanced ability in Greek with extensive reading experience in Homeric, Attic, Ionic, Hellenistic, Koine, Late Antique, and Patristic authors.

Advanced ability and teaching experience in Latin with extensive reading experience in Early, Augustan, Late Imperial, Christian, and Medieval authors.